

iNEER ICEE ICIT CONFERENCE

8–12 December 2013

Cape Peninsula University of Technology Cape Town, South Africa

iNEER is a global professional organization formed by an international engineering community to promote mutual progress in teaching and learning through international cooperation. iNEER is a non-profit organisation based in Potomac, Maryland, USA that seeks to promote the development of international understanding and partnership through information sharing. The widening network of educators and researchers covers 98 countries, and is linked through the iNEER website, archival publications, electronic communication system and various conferences, workshops, and retreats.

The 2013 ICEE ICIT conference will be devoted to various aspects of future cross-regional collaboration in (ICT) for education and research. The conference emphasizes the development of international partnerships in education and research and serves as a forum for establishing new contacts and discussing new projects to work on in the future.
