

INEER/ICEE E-MAILS FOLLOWING 9-11-01 TERROR ATTACKS

(A)

Arlington, Virginia, USA
September 13, 2001

Dear Friends,

As we grieve for the victims of the cowardly terrorist attacks against defenseless civilians on 9/11/01, I want to thank those of you who have sent me your e-mails of support. My family and I are all OK. The Pentagon and the State Department, both attacked on Tuesday, are about 4-5 miles from my office and 15-20 miles from my house. Late Monday night, I returned home from a trip to California. On Tuesday morning, I heard the terrible news, and saw the sickening TV images, as I was stepping into my car, bound first for my office and then to take a 7:10 PM flight to Vienna/Klagenfurt, Austria for the IGIP conference. Obviously, I stayed behind and it was soon announced on TV and radio that all offices were closed and people were asked to leave the city. Yesterday and today, the offices re-opened, and some airports have started to operate but only on a limited basis.

Dr. Saul Fenster informed me that NJIT, situated in Newark, NJ just across the river from New York City, has lost three colleagues/friends. On behalf of all of us, I express our deep sorrow and extend our condolences.

This afternoon, I had an opportunity to speak with Prof. V. Roubicek. He is leading a VSB - Technical U. of Ostrava delegation in the U.S. visiting Southern Illinois U. and the U. of Missouri-Rolla. Before the tragic event of this week, we had planned to meet in Klagenfurt for the IGIP conference. We agreed today that our chances of being able to fly out there in time for the meeting is now quite remote.

It is now becoming clear that thousands of people perished in the World Trade Center. In addition to Americans, there were people from all over the world who were visiting either on business or as tourists, paying homage to one of the most visible icons of the free world. Many of you have written eloquently about your feelings against terrorism. Many of these e-mails were addressed to me in my capacity as Secretary General of iNEER. With your permission, I will share these messages with the ICEE-ISC and others in the iNEER/ICEE community. Thus, in the next few days, I will compile the messages into a Word-file and forward it to you.

Many thanks again for your e-mails.

Sincerely,

Win Aung, Ph.D., Dr.h.c., P.E.

Dear Win:

thank you for your call and support during my stay in the U.S. Me and Vice-rector Cermak have arrived after little dramatic trip safely to Munchen (via Paris) and my driver came to pick us from there. The little drama I am mentioning has happened at Paris airport when we had to leave our plane because of a notice that there was a woman connected to the terrorist group, so they took her away from the plane and we and our luggage had to be checked again. I've noticed that European precautions and attitudes are kind of exaggerated and confused, but we did understand it. What I have admired were composure and strong sense of responsibility of American people in such a dramatical time.....

Regards,
Vaclav Roubicek [Czech Republic]

[Editor's Note: The above message was attached to an e-mail from Prof. Roubicek, Rector of Technical U. of Ostrava and Chair of iNEER and ICEE-ISC. He was leading a delegation of faculty from TUO on a cooperative visit to Southern Illinois U. and the U. of Missouri – Rolla when the terrorist attacks took place on 9-11-01]

Dear Dr. Aung :

Our colleagues here in the National Science Council are deeply shocked by the horrifying images exploded on the television screens on September 11. Many of us follow the news with deep sympathies to those who have been bereaved.

We were shocked when the TV reported the terrorist attacks against the innocent civilians on Sep 11. We grieved the victims and were furious about this kind of terrorism. We hope the Americans will recover from this damage soon.....

On behalf of National Science Council as well as ICEE members in Taiwan, I express our deep sorrow and extend our condolences.

Best regards,

Dear Win,

.....everyone here in the UK was utterly horrified and stunned by Tuesday's events. You may have heard that the European Union declared today, Friday 14 September 2001, as an International Day of Mourning to mark the appalling loss of life. At 11am this morning the whole of Manchester (and I dare say the rest of the UK as well) came to a standstill as people observed 3-minutes silence to remember those who were caught up in this terrible tragedy.

Our thoughts are very much with our friends and colleagues in America as they struggle to come to terms with the enormity of what has taken place.

Dear Mr. Win Aung,

All of us in Donetsk were deeply shocked by terrible events of September, 11. All Ukrainian people express sympathy with American people. Yesterday was the Day of Sorrow in Ukraine, devoted to memory of terrorist act victims and at 12 a.m. was the Minute of Silence (it is custom: to stop all business and events for short time simultaneously in memory of victims).

We are very glad to know that You are all right.

We hope that all civilized countries together will find the adequate answer for this impertinent crime.

Dear Prof Win Aung,

We thank the Lord for protecting you and the iNEER fraternity from the shocking, terrible , tragic event that happened this week on 11th Sept' 2001 in USA. Today, the whole USA and the global citizens pray for the departed souls that left the Earth so suddenly with no prior indication to their beloved family. We also join them in the mass prayer that they rest in peace under the divine care; At this hour, we may not know the bereaved families but our prayers may console and guide them for the rest of their lives with the holy unseen positive vibrations around them .

As one associated with the engineering profession for 4+ decades, I feel that such an unfortunate mad activity needs to be addressed effectively from the education point of view. We concentrate only on the so-called material- based EDUCATION and on human value-based EDUCARE. The basic concept of the very purpose of one's Life appears to be missing as we experience such inhuman incidents. It is high time the rudiments of love, global brotherhood, service to society , spiritual approach need to be highlighted in the education system continuously from the primary to the tertiary levels; The philosophy has to be continued through some mechanism in one's workspot also with view to moderate and focus their emotions in the positive side..

If the individual's inbuilt mechanism is well trained towards self-realisation and ' Ever - Help and Never- Hurt instincts and goodwill characters, the society and the nations / globe will be a harmonious peaceful abode to live in . the Holistic Educare, that is, the value-added education system approach seems to be solution for the purposeless chaotic self-centred inhuman behaviours present in large proportion in time and space.

With warm and kindest regards,
Yours Sincerely,

.....My concentration was on New York (my sister and many friends live there), but I very much appreciated knowing that you and your family were safe as well.

I went to the beginning of the workshop here on Tuesday morning, to give an official welcome to the group from Ostrava. It was good to see Rector Roubicek and Professor Weiss (both of whom I had met several times before) as well as the other members of the delegation. Such international comings and goings warm my heart (I have conference colleagues and friends in Linguistics at Klagenfort and elsewhere in Austria) - we must keep international understanding and communication despite (or because of) the horrors of the few in the world.

Dear Win,

I had been away from my computer these last three days, but on TV we have seen these terrible terrorists attacks on thousands of innocent people, senseless crimes against americans and against humanity. We have to work together, now more than ever, all around the world, to identify, fight, punish and eliminate all acts of terrorism.

There are no words that I can use to convey the reaction of all in my family and our sorrow for the victims and their families (some "brazilians" were also working regularly at the WTC buildings in N. York).

But I am glad that you and your family are well although your travel plans to Vienna had to be cancelled. Let us hope that lives can soon return to normality, although I honestly think that our world will not be the same from now on.

Let's keep working together to confort those that suffered these terrible events with our prayers and hard efforts, so that we can build a better humankind for our children and grandchildren.
